HISTORY

According to research and legend, the Inn was constructed in 1903 to house the men who built Delta Dam and was called the Delta Dam Hotel.

After the completion of the dam, the hotel remained open as a stage coach station, though its owners sought a different clientele. During the late teens and roaring twenties, the Inn found new life as a speakeasy where bathtub gin flowed lavishly.

According to local legend, the Inn stayed open during the Depression as a house of ill repute.

Today, Delta Lake Inn features five dining rooms, a bar, a piano bar, and a second-floor banquet hall.
